

YOU ARE CASP. CASP IS YOU!

We're working to make CASP more relevant to your everyday needs as a school psychologist. More online services, more information on issues that affect your job, more opportunities to make yourself more valuable in the workplace – all developed with you in mind.

CASP Website

Make www.casponline.org your connection to all things school psychology. As the school psychology website, casponline.org is more informative, more interactive and more exciting, with a bevy of online workshops, opportunities to register for live workshops, surveys created by those who make a difference in the future of school psychology, publications, updates on legislation and regulations that affect how you do your job, and much more! Check it out on your mobile device.

Annual Convention, Spring Institute

These continuing education and networking opportunities are highly anticipated by CASP members. The annual convention features nationally known psychology experts who not only update you on school psychology issues, but motivate you to take that information and use it in your schools. It also features several social and networking opportunities, trade show and committee meetings. Spring Conference supplements the convention with added opportunities to update your school psychology knowledge. CASP members receive major discounts to these premier events.

Alumni Club

This new CASP group is devoted to the future of school psychology through political action and presentations before student groups to increase interest in the field. In exchange for their work, Alumni Club members are invited to special events at the annual convention and Spring Institute. Check it out at <http://casponline.org/members/legislative/#alumni>

Licensed Educational Psychologists and Nationally Certified School Psychologists

CASP is the one-stop shop for the continuing professional development you need to renew your LEP and your NCSP. New LEPs can also attend the mandated workshops needed for their first biannual renewal. CASP represents LEPs at the legislative and regulatory levels.

CASP Webinars

Can't attend the annual convention or smaller conferences? No problem! CASP offer many workshops from these events online. Plus, CASP will continue to add workshops. As a CASP member, you will get major discounts to download and view these workshops, and receive CEUs.

Student Representation

The Student Leadership Council advises CASP on issues that affect future school psychologists. Student members received discounts for workshops created just for them, such as the Navigating the Job Hunt and Thriving as a New School Psychologist workshop. You are school psychology's future! Get involved today!

Survey Opportunities

Do you have a research project and need school psychologists to respond to your online survey? CASP can assist you. We will link your online survey to our website for 30 days and ask our members to give you their opinions. CASP members receive this benefit at a discount. See the CASP website, www.casponline.org, for more information.

Liability Insurance

CASP has secured discounted insurance for student interns, LEPs and any other school psychologist in need of such services. American Professional Agency, www.americanprofessional.com, offers major discounts for CASP members.

CASP Today

CASP's quarterly, online newsletter will continue to be the place for association news, messages from CASP leadership, affiliate news and the latest research. CASP Today also provides publishing opportunities for a range of writers; from those who have valuable research to share to those who wish to write about their experiences as school psychologists. A summary of what is online is mailed to all CASP members soon after CASP Today appears online.

Contemporary School Psychology

As a CASP member, you receive free access to the Contemporary School Psychology, an annual online journal devoted to issues in school psychology. Now published four times a year in partnership with Springer, the CSP journal not only updates members on the latest school psychology research from throughout the nation, but also offers publishing opportunities.

Legislative and Regulatory Representation

CASP is the only organization that represents you and your professional interests before the state Legislature and various state departments, boards and commissions. Our CASP lobbyist and Legislative Committee constantly monitor proposed legislation and regulations that affect you.

Information & Referral

You have access to the Association's information and referral services, including more than a dozen committees and advisory groups designed to address specific aspects of school psychology and Association activities.

This Week at CASP

Look for this weekly email to arrive in your inbox. It will give you timely updates on workshops, legislation, association news briefs – a snapshot of what is happening that week in school psychology.

Public Awareness Campaign

CASP works to target information to specific groups and audiences including legislators, media representatives, school administrators, parents, and teachers about the profession and school psychology's valuable contribution to the educational process.

Job Bulletin

The Job Bulletin – free for members only – offers timely information on career opportunities throughout the state and nation. It is often updated with jobs offerings in places you may not have considered. Where might you want to go? See where you may end up. Check it out today!

Local Connections

There are 16 CASP-chartered affiliate groups in California. These local school psychology organizations offer members a venue to gather and share information and resources with colleagues. Many hold workshops with well-known trainers. CASP provides an annual training and meetings for local officers to help them manage and coordinate affiliate activities. Find out more at <http://www.casponline.org/members/casp-affiliates>.

New Benefits: Mentors are now available for school psychologists new to the state, region or assignment. CASP's new partnership with HotelStorm brings exclusive hotel discounts to our members of up to 55 percent over other travel agencies! Simply go to the Members area of the CASP website and click on HotelStorm.com unlock discounts. Alliant International University is offering CASP members a chance to further their education at a 10 percent tuition reduction and an application fee waiver when they enroll as a full-time student in one of Alliant's programs. Brandman University is offering scholarships of up to $5,600 for its graduate and certificate programs. Just click on the Members Area of CASPOnline.org and log in to view more information about these benefits.

More to come!
